

Hello,

I understand that Sinclair Broadcasting has made a decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary without a balanced pro-Kerry view. This is supposed to happen just days before the election! After watching "Outfoxed" on DVD (about partisan "news" reporting on the Fox TV network), I am becoming very concerned about the dangers of media consolidation!

As I understand it, Radio and Television stations use the public airwaves free of charge, and are therefore obligated by law to show both sides of view fairly when it comes to public information of political issues. If this is not longer the law, it should be! When big companies decide for themselves what plays on the airwaves, we get more of what's good for them (the company) and less of what's good for us (the public). We need fairness in broadcasting for our democracy!

I want to hear more facts about relevant topics. I want fewer partisan opinions. And I want less fear mongering. I want to hear the voices of the local reporters, not the voice of the puppeteer businesses behind them!

Why does Sinclair and Murdoch-owned media feel safe to be so blatantly partisan? We need to strengthen media ownership rules! We need to watch these transgressions more closely! We need tighter license renewal processes! The public needs your help!

Thank You
